

The Stay and Play program is made possible in part by Jacobs Engineering Group, one of the world’s largest and most diverse providers of professional technical services. In fact, Engineering News Record recently ranked Jacobs the #1 design firm in the United States. Jacobs brings to clients deep and broad professional resources, through their more than 55,000 personnel. Their highly trained personnel include engineers, architects, planners, operations, construction, and maintenance professionals. In addition, Jacobs’ high-powered and experienced team of leaders and project managers help to ensure Jacobs’ success by staying on schedule and within budget.

Jacobs has played a major role in improving the transportation network of the Hampton Roads region since the 1960s, when they provided professional engineering services for the design and construction of the original Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel (CBBT). Since then, they have continuously served the CBBT district providing engineering services in support of operations and maintenance. Jacobs also provided support of the development and implementation of the parallel crossing.

Since 2006, Jacobs has been a partner with Hampton Roads Transit in the program and construction management team of consultants for the development and implementation, of the initial Tide segment. Their roles include engineering design, design review, procurement support, construction management, and related support services for all aspects of the project.

In addition to working on The Tide light rail project, Jacobs has served other transportation clients in the region, providing construction engineering and inspection services for the Hampton Roads District of the Virginia Department of Transportation and engineering services for the City of Virginia Beach.

Hampton Roads Transit is proud to have Jacobs as their gold sponsor for the Stay and Play program. Stay and Play has been a huge success. Without the assistance of companies like Jacobs, this important program would not be possible. We are grateful for Jacobs’ investment in public transportation in the Hampton Roads community and our nation.
